1. The Wittstock (U-11) - Kyritz (Z-11) - Wusterhausen (Z-18) - Neustadt (Z-18) road is a second class highway about 8 meters wide. The surface is partly asphalt and partly cobbled, with occasional potholes. This road is bordered by a ditch on both sides and rows of trees of between 20 - 30 cm in diameter.
2. Bridges.
 - a. Reichsstrasse 5 bridge crosses a small stream immediately NW of Wusterhausen at Z-1788. This was blown up during the war and has now been replaced by a temporary bridge of light construction. It could not be used by heavy tanks.
 - b. Reichsstrasse 5 bridge crosses the River Dosse immediately south of Wusterhausen. This bridge, constructed of stone, is undamaged. It is sufficiently strong to take heavy tanks.
 - c. In both cases, the bridges traverse narrow streams which are of shallow depth and without steep sloping banks. In the event of the bridges being destroyed, tanks, caterpillar vehicles and heavy transport could ford the water without difficulty.
